

Why do a PGCE?

The PGCE offers you an extra dimension to your teacher training adding to and enhancing the provision from your school based partner.

Pedagogy

You will have a chance to consider the "big ideas" about pedagogy that have informed teaching for more than the last 100 years. These ideas come from history, psychology, cognitive science, sociology and philosophy.

Reflection

You will learn about models of reflection that will allow you to situate the knowledge, arts and crafts (Pollard) you are learning in school in the wider dialogue and discourse of education; allowing you to "stand on the shoulders of giants"

Critique

You will develop thinking approaches which will allow you to critically examine the ideas you will encounter in school, in books and from your social learning networks.

Research

You will have access to and be able to discuss the research evidence for teaching and learning from classic theorists and from contemporary writers.

This Masters' level qualification will support and enhance your teacher education giving you an internationally recognised academic qualification. For more details talk to your SCITT or contact Paul Hopkins at p.hopkins@hull.ac.uk entitling your email SCITT PG enquiry
